INSTRUCTIONS TO APPLICANTS

To allow for processing time, and to ensure the timely issuance of a permit should one be granted, you are urged to apply for a permit at least three months prior to the start of your proposed activities. If you are renewing or amending an existing permit, your application must be received at least 30 days prior to the expiration of the existing permit. The information provided in your permit application will be used to process your application in accordance with the Endangered Species Act, its implementing regulations (which may include the solicitation of public comments on the application for 30 days), and with U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service policy. Receipt and possession of a permit under the Endangered Species Act should be regarded as a privilege, as we must balance permit issuance with our duties to protect and recover listed species.

Before you submit an application for an Enhancement of Survival permit, we may require you to conduct biological surveys to determine which species and/or habitat would be impacted by the activities sought to be covered under the permit. Our general permit regulations at 50 CFR 13.12(a)(9) allow us to collect such other information as we determine that is relevant to the processing of a permit application. These biological surveys provide information that the applicant needs to develop an adequate Safe Harbor Agreement or Candidate Conservation Agreement with Assurances, and that we need to assess the biological effects. In addition, the information provided in a biological survey can reduce the applicant's risk of take under Section 9 of the Endangered Species Act by ensuring that affected species and/or habitat will be identified and thus covered under the permit.

Prior to conducting the biological survey, you may wish to obtain a permit from us for Scientific Purposes, Enhancement of Propagation or Survival (commonly called a Recovery permit) which will authorize any taking of listed species that would result from the survey. Contact the nearest Service Field office to discuss the need for a biological survey and a corresponding Recovery permit, as we will evaluate this on a case-by-case basis. If a biological survey is required, we urge you to apply for the corresponding Recovery permit at least 3 months prior to the desired start of the survey to allow for processing time.

If you are not applying as an individual but as a business, corporation, institution, or non-Federal public agency (block B. on page 1), the person to whom the permit will be issued (e.g., the landowner, president, director, executive director, or executive officer) is legally responsible for implementing the permit. Although other people under the direct control of the permittee (e.g., employees, contractors, consultants) receive third party take authorization in their capacity as designees of the permittee, the individual named as the permittee ultimately is legally responsible for the permit and any activities carried out under the permit except as otherwise limited in the case of permits issued to State or local government entities under 50 CFR 13.25(d).

Up-to-date annual reports and any other required reports under your existing permit(s) must be on file before a permit will be considered for renewal or amendment.

If your activities may affect species under the authority of the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), then you may need to obtain a separate permit from NMFS. NMFS and the Fish and Wildlife Service (Service) share jurisdiction for sea turtles. The Service issues permits to conduct activities impacting sea turtles on land, and the NMFS issues permits to conduct activities impacting sea turtle in the marine environment. To apply for a permit to conduct activities with sea turtles in the marine environment, please contact the NMFS via the Internet at http://www.nmfs.noaa.gov/prot_res/PR3/Permits/ESAPermit.html
